

VERBAL CHILD ASSENT FORM

Hi. My name is Amanda. I'm a graduate student at Santa Clara University. Right now, I'm trying to learn about an application called Code Girl that teaches girls about programming. I would like to ask you to help me by being in a study, but before I do, I want to explain what you will do.

I will ask you to play the game Code Girl and then answer questions about the game by yourself and in a group for about two hours. After you play the game and answer the questions, you will receive a small gift.

You mom or dad says it's okay for you to take part in my project. But if you don't want to be the study, you don't have to be. What you decide won't make any difference with receiving the gift. I won't be upset, and no one else will be upset, if you don't want to be in the study. If you want to be in the study now but change your mind later, that's okay. You can stop at any time.

You can ask me questions about the study. If you have a question later that you don't think of now, you can call me or ask your parents to call me or send me an email.

Do you have any questions for me now?

Would you like to be in my study?
